- With so many market-moving factors fluctuating throughout the year, mergers and acquisitions have understandably had a somewhat ambivalent 2018. Intensifying trade tensions, political instability, and increased regulatory scrutiny took their toll on the number of deals struck over the year, which fell for the first time, however slightly, since 2010 to 19,232 after steadily rising for close to a decade. The transactions that did make it to the signing table reached US$ 3.53tn worth of activity, ranking 2018 as the third-largest year on Mergermarket record by value. Average deal size consequently saw its second-highest total value on record with US$ 384.8m, just below the US$ 400.3m peak reached in 2015.

- As companies felt the pressure to consolidate, fuelled by a need for greater equity value, firms often found themselves competing for the choicest targets, pushing up valuations. Comcast's eventual US$ 51.5bn Sky takeover was a case in point where the Pennsylvania telecoms giant ended up paying considerably more than its starting offer in an effort to beat rival bidder Twenty-First Century Fox. Further, the continued availability of cheap financing due to historically low interest rates in the post-crisis period aided much of the capital needed to fund bidding wars, particularly in the private equity space. Ahead of expected interest rate rises, global buyout activity reached US$ 556.6bn, its highest total in a decade and 3.7% more than 2017's US$ 536.7bn. Buyouts also achieved their highest-ever deal count – 3,599 – breaking the previous record of 3,530 set in 2017. Meanwhile, sponsors exited the second-highest number of investments on record, registering 2,450 compared to a peak of 2,592 in 2017. Moreover, 2018 reached the highest total exit value ever of US$ 551.5bn.

- The year also saw the emergence of a few sectors to watch. While Energy, Mining & Utilities (EMU) ranked first by hitting its second-highest value on record with US$ 673bn, Construction reached a new decade high of US$ 116.5bn, driven by PE plays and infrastructure bids; total value was just under 2007's record of US$ 116.8bn. Defense also set a new record with US$ 28.8bn as competition for government contracts heated up, according to Mergermarket intelligence. Business Services saw a new high of US$ 289.3bn, bolstered by defensive healthcare services moves in the US and PE interest in information providers. Although deal count fell almost everywhere, Agriculture emerged from the fog of uncertainty to reach a record high with 219 transactions, boosted by the emerging North American cannabis industry.

- Against a backdrop of growing socio-political tensions, dealmaking continued at an encouraging rate. With tariffs, trade wars, the UK's exit from the European Union, and an underlying sense of general economic uncertainty and unease, it may be surprising that figures have held up as they have. Yet activity did suffer in some corners. Chinese buys of US firms fell 94.6% to US$ 3bn from a record USD 55.3bn in 2016. Meanwhile, China's bids in Europe rose 81.7% to US$ 60.4bn from US$ 33.2bn last year. Cross-border count fell by 6.6% to 6,405, while valuations inched higher to US$ 1.35tn from US$ 1.27tn the year prior. Domestic count slipped to 12,827 from 13,115, while value increased 15% to US$ 2.18tn from US$ 1.90tn. US consolidations accounted for much of this, with top deals in pharmacy benefit management, telecommunications, energy, software, retail, and real estate, many of which found consolidation necessary for survival as technology disrupts sector after sector – a trend that seems likely to continue causing more structural changes in 2019.

“Intensifying trade tensions, political instability, and increased regulatory scrutiny took their toll on the number of deals struck over the year, though deal values, fuelled by cheap financing, pressure on companies to consolidate and competition from sponsors, remained relatively high”

- Politics continues to plague European dealmakers, as M&A experienced a considerable drop during the second half of the year, as Q4 recorded US$ 146.2bn worth of activity, the lowest quarterly value since Q1 2013. While Europe received 11 megadeals (> US$ 10bn) in 2018, four more than the entirety of 2017, all were announced in the first five months. Rising protectionism, government intervention, and continued uncertainty have all undoubtedly caused firms to reconsider high-profile investments. The region saw just ten deals worth over US$ 5bn in H2, including Hitachi's US$ 9.4bn acquisition of ABB's power grids business and the US$ 7.1bn Calsonic Kansei/Magneti Marelli deal. Despite the continent reaching its highest post-crisis value (US$ 989.2bn) and highest value share of global M&A (28%) since 2014, dealmakers will be concerned over the slowdown in activity in H2 and whether 2019 will return to the buoyant levels seen in recent years.

- Prolonged uncertainty regarding the future relationship between the UK and the rest of the EU has caused a noticeable slowdown in M&A activity. This has been particularly felt in the final three months of the year as Theresa May battled both sides of parliament once her deal was agreed with the EU. In Q4 the UK recorded its lowest quarterly value and volume since the referendum with just US$ 34.1bn (333 deals) announced. A delay to the final vote in the House of Commons and subsequent confidence vote in the UK Prime Minister will have done little to reassure investors, and the looming threat of a no deal scenario could see continued subdued activity in 2019. M&A targeting the EU27 has seen a similar dip, albeit less pronounced, from the exceptional start to the year. The lack of clarity has resulted in further domestic consolidation in the UK, something which may further increase in 2019, particularly in the retail space, given the ongoing political and economic difficulties.

- Private equity was key to M&A levels, with buyout activity hitting US$ 195.5bn (1,458 buyouts), its highest value since the crash. With unprecedented levels of dry-powder readily available, private equity houses have looked towards higher-valued firms, including listed companies. Take-private buyouts have soared in recent years with 64 such deals announced since the start of 2016, including the proposed US$ 4bn takeover of Travelport Worldwide and the US$ 2.9bn acquisition of Testa Residencial, both announced in H2. In 2018, take-private buyouts reached its highest annual value and joint-highest volume since the crisis with US$ 26bn recorded across 22 deals. This accounted for an 13.3% share of the year's overall buyout value. As the mid-market becomes ever-more saturated, the pressure put on GPs to invest the vast sums available should result in continued high levels of activity in the coming year. For example, there is reported private equity interest in firms such as L'Occitane and Nestle Skin Health, which could result in multi-billion euro deals.

- A series of high-profile transactions resulted in Energy, Mining & Utilities (EMU) becoming the highest-valued sector in Europe, with US$ 152.5bn recorded across 402 deals. Takeovers of innogy and EDP, together with interest in North Sea assets and renewable energy, pushed the sector to its highest annual value in since 2012 (US$ 218.6bn, 430 deals). Europe accounted for 22.7% of global EMU M&A (US$ 673bn), its highest share since 2015. Amid global changes to the way consumers interact with products and services, the Tech, Media, and Telecoms sectors all saw noticeable upticks in activity. Telecoms reached its highest annual value in Europe since 2014 (US$ 94.8bn), registering US$ 69.6bn worth of M&A, which included Vodafone's US$ 21.8bn acquisition of Liberty Global's German and CEE operations, and the US$ 10.5bn takeover of TDC.

• The final quarter of 2018 brought some resolution to the year's political uncertainty with the US midterm elections in November, though other concerns have taken their place. With rising interest rates and a new Democratic majority set to take over the House of Representatives in 2019, worries that valuations could see some effect and deals potentially coming under even more scrutiny than over the past couple of years remain. By the end of 2018, nonetheless, US M&A reached US$ 1.5tn, the second-highest total value ever and up 15.4% from 2017's US$ 1.3tn. Deal count also achieved its second-best figures on record with 5,718 transactions, down slightly from 2017's record 5,800. Moreover, the US share of global deal value increased to 43% in 2018, up from 41.6% in 2017, while its share of global deal count rose slightly to 29.7%, up from 29% in 2017. However, new uncertainties by year's end from the global stock market sell-off as well as the government shutdown have dampened some enthusiasm among dealmakers.

• As a whole, 2018 is unlikely to go down in M&A history as one that would put any observer of the business world to sleep. While Q1 saw the White House blocking then Singapore-based (now US-based) Broadcom's bid for US-based semiconductors firm Qualcomm on the basis of national security concerns, in Q2 the finale of the AT&T/Time Warner antitrust trial saw that transaction finally close after a federal court ruling in its favor, resulting in the Justice Department losing its lawsuit to block the deal. Further, against a backdrop of national security concerns and trade tensions, 2018 saw protectionism gaining more of a foothold, with dealmakers appearing stuck between the need to consolidate in an increasingly technological world fuelled by cheap financing and the uncertainty of making deals in an environment of trade wars and tariffs.

• With global political and economic tensions rising, activity between the US and China, one of its largest trading partners, has seen a sharp decrease in the past year, plunging 94.6% from a record high inbound value of US$ 55.3bn in 2016 to just under US$ 3bn in 2018. From 2017 (US$ 8.7bn), activity fell 65.8% in value. In terms of deal count, this year has seen activity fall from 63 transactions in 2017 to 38 in 2018, and a drop by 35 transactions from a peak of 73 recorded in 2016. In fact, the largest Chinese bid for a US company in 2018 did not even break the billion dollar mark – Bison Capital's US$ 450m bid for US biopharmaceutical firm Xynomic Pharmaceuticals, whose completion is still pending as of this writing.

• US M&A saw a number of sectors shattering value records, included Business Services, boosted by the aforementioned Cigna/Express Scripts deal, reaching US$ 200bn; Construction, recording US$ 29.5bn; Defense M&A reaching a record US$ 26.6bn; and the year's top sector Energy, Mining & Utilities (EMU), reaching US$ 350.4bn. Media, following the resolution of the antitrust lawsuit against its largest deal ever recorded (AT&T/Time Warner, US$ 105bn) fell 76.5% in value of US$ 26.7bn from US$ 113.6bn in 2017. Though technologies continue to put pressure on sectors such as Media to consolidate, in a time of intense regulatory scrutiny, dealmakers understandably have some cause for concern before engaging in the mega-deals of yesteryear. Further, with interest rates steadily rising and the cost of financing such transactions projected to similarly increase, it is unclear to what degree activity is poised to continue on its upward trend in 2019.

“Some resolution to 2018's political uncertainty came with the US midterm election, though other concerns have taken their place. With rising interest rates and a new Democratic majority in the House of Reps in 2019, worries that valuations could be affected and that deals could face more scrutiny remain”

Latin America

- Latin America faced no fewer than six presidential elections in 2018, including in its two most populous nations, Brazil and Mexico. The former saw the election of conservative candidate and former military officer Jair Bolsonaro, while the latter saw the victory of populist Andrés Manuel López Obrador, known as “AMLO”, amidst a geopolitical environment that included its neighbor the US imposing tariffs, engaging in a trade war, and renegotiating a new NAFTA. With all of this domestic and cross-border political and economic uncertainty, the region’s dealmaking fell 25.3% from US$ 97.1bn in 2017 to US$ 72.6bn, the lowest total deal value on record since 2005, when the region registered US$ 38.3bn. The number of deals in 2018 also dropped from 654 transactions the year prior to 600, below the five-year average of 614 deals. Moreover, Latin America’s share of global M&A activity more than halved from 4.7% in 2017 to just 2.1% in 2018.

- As Brazil, Latin America’s dominant economy, attempted to move past political corruption scandals, it was once again the top country for M&A by both deal value and count in the region, recording US$ 40.1bn and 303 transactions, just a 0.3% increase in value with 15 fewer deals compared to 2017’s US$ 40bn and 318 deals. Chile registered the second-highest total deal value after Brazil with US$ 12.4bn, though this marked a fall in aggregate value by half from US$ 24.6bn recorded in 2017, and as deal count only fell to 55 transactions from 57 recorded over the same period. Mexico saw the second-most number of deals in 2018 with 66 transactions worth a total of US$ 3.4bn, though this was a decrease in count from 79 transactions and a fall in value by almost two-thirds from US$ 9.9bn in 2017.

- Industrials & Chemicals (I&C) led the sector rankings for Latin America in 2018, setting a new record value total of US$ 23bn with 93 transactions. This was nearly 2.5x the US$ 9.5bn worth of deals in the I&C sector registered in 2017, though deal count fell by four transactions. The region’s top deal of the year, which comprised 66.5% of total I&C value – Brazil-based Suzano Papel e Celulose US$ 15.3bn purchase of domestic target Fibria Celulose – also marked Latin America’s only mega-deal (above US$ 10bn) of the year and was the largest I&C deal for the region on record. Another area to watch is Latin America’s Technology sector, which recorded its second-highest total deal value on record with US$ 2.4bn, double 2017’s US$ 1.2bn and only 4.3% below a peak value of US$ 2.5bn set in 2014. In terms of deal count, Latin America saw two new records set – the Construction sector reached a peak of 30 transactions worth US$ 2.3bn in 2018, while the Pharma, Medical & Biotech (PMB) sector recorded 69 transactions worth US$ 1.8bn.

- Inbound M&A ceased to be a strong component in Latin America, plummeting 49.5% to US$ 32.8bn from US$ 65bn in 2017. Much of this fall was due to declining inbound investments from US companies, which registered only US$ 6.4bn for the year, a 74.8% drop from the US$ 25.5bn recorded in 2017. The number of incoming deals from the US also fell to 72 in 2018 from a high of 106 recorded in 2017. Even activity from China, which had been on the lookout for new markets in response to growing trade tensions with the US, saw a decrease of 34.2% to US$ 6.1bn from US$ 9.3bn in 2017. Additionally, activity from Europe also fell, with deal flow contracting 19.5% to US$ 12.2bn from US$ 15.2bn in 2017. As Latin America’s new leaders attempt to change the region, it remains to be seen how friendly their new policies will be to dealmakers, both domestic and cross-border, in 2019.

“Latin America faced no fewer than six presidential elections in 2018 amidst a geopolitical environment that included tariffs, a trade war, and renegotiating NAFTA. With all of this political and economic uncertainty, the region’s dealmaking fell sharply in 2018”

Asia Pacific (excl. Japan)

- Asia-Pacific (excl. Japan) M&A experienced a robust 2018, reaching its second highest annual value on Mergermarket record, highlighting an increasingly dealmaking friendly region. The region recorded 4036 deals for a combined US$ 717.4bn, signifying a 2.6% increase in value and a drop of 42 by deal count compared to 2017 (US$ 699.6bn, 4,078 deals). Despite the volume decrease, an uptick in big-ticket deals ensured the overall M&A value varied only slightly. Five megadeals (>US$ 10bn) were announced in 2018, one more than in 2017, however just one such deal was recorded in the second half of the year. The largest deal to target the region was the US$ 16bn acquisition of Indian online retailer Flipkart, by retail giant Walmart. This transaction along with the new Indian bankruptcy code pushed Indian M&A to reach the highest annual value (US$ 99.9bn) on Mergermarket record, becoming the second most targeted country behind China.

- Industrials & Chemicals became the most attractive sector in 2018 by both value and volume, posting US$ 115.2bn across 832 deals, an increase of 23.5% in value compared to 2017 (US$ 93.3bn, 825 deals). This was largely due to one blockbuster tie-up involving Chinese chemical product manufacturers Yantai Wanhua and Wanhua Chemical worth US$ 12.7bn. Another notable sector was Pharma, Medical & Biotech which saw a dramatic uptick in Q4 2018, posting a value of US$ 14.5bn, whilst reaching its largest quarterly value on Mergermarket record. Thanks to the strong Q4 as well as large financing in pre-IPO companies, the sector reached an annual value of US$ 41.3bn, a 63.8% increase compared to 2017. However, the absence of strategic planning and rising competition globally may lead to a cool down in biotech activity, according to Mergermarket intelligence.

- Regarding cross-border activity, outbound M&A was buoyant while inbound M&A experienced mild growth. The value of outbound transactions reached US$ 160bn in 2018, hitting its second highest on Mergermarket record and posting a 52.4% increase compared to 2017. Despite increased scrutiny by overseas regulatory regimes, China remained the most active investor outside the region following an acceleration of M&A approvals by Chinese authorities together with more attention being paid on target selection and deal structures. Meanwhile, foreign investment into Asia-Pacific (excl. Japan) reached US$ 122.5bn, equivalent to a 4.4% increase compared to 2017. The downturn in Australian activity, long the most attractive destination for foreign investors in recent years, was key to the decline. Concerns over compliance and uncertainty on future policy in the energy market are starting to cast a shadow on Australia, according to Mergermarket intelligence.

- Private equity firms remained active, despite buyout activity experiencing a dip, with 514 deals worth US$ 124.1bn announced in 2018, a 3.4% decrease by value compared to 2017. This was largely due to a weak fourth quarter when value and deal count both shrunk. In spite of this, the annual value still hit its second highest point on Mergermarket record, only behind 2017. The US$ 14bn acquisition of Chinese payment company Ant Financial by a consortium led by GIC, was the largest buyout deal in 2018. Alibaba's rivals Baidu and JD were also targeted amongst the top ten buyout deals, following the introduction of a substantial regulatory mechanism and interest in fintech ever increasing. Big-ticket deals boosted the financial services sector, becoming the second highest by value in terms of buyouts (US$ 25.6bn), accounting for a 20.6% market share.

- With relatively stable economic and political circumstances at home, Japan saw a steady M&A deal flow in 2018 (444 deals, US$ 46.8bn) climbing slightly compared to 2017's value (468 deals, US$ 45.6bn). The last three months of 2018 finished with US$ 15.9bn changing hands across 100 deals, accounting for 8.1% share of Asian M&A, the highest quarterly figure for the country since Q3 2017 (10.3%). The quarter also witnessed the US$ 5.7bn tie-up between Japanese refiners Idemitsu Kosan and Showa Shell Sekiyu, marking the only deal targeting the country to breach US$ 5bn in 2018 and the fourth largest in the Japanese energy sector on Mergermarket record (since 2001). The deal pushed Energy, Mining & Utilities to become the fastest growing sector of the year with US$ 7.2bn across 11 deals, up 6.1x by value on 2017 while also representing its highest value since 2012 (US$ 17.7bn).

- While domestic deals remained subdued in 2017, the last 12 months notched US$ 40.5bn across 411 transactions, almost double the value seen a year prior (420 deals, US$ 20.6bn), indicating that domestic investors are picking up confidence once again. On the other hand, in line with trends seen globally, protectionism and trade tensions caused foreign investment to slow to its lowest annual value since 2013, after experiencing a post-crisis high in 2017, which saw US$ 25bn. US and China, two significant dealmakers into Japan, both saw sharp drops in both deal values and number of deals in the past year. In 2018, 33 deals worth just US$ 6.3bn were triggered by bidders outside Japan, a 74.9% decline compared to the previous year. Two of the most high-profile inbound deals both occurred in Q4, including Johnson & Johnson's US$ 1.9bn takeover of an 80.1% stake in Ci:z Holdings – the only US-initiated transaction valued above US$ 1bn this year.

- Outbound activity reached an unprecedented level, recording 311 transactions worth US$ 171.8bn, with 25 deals breaching the US$ 1bn threshold. This marked the highest value on Mergermarket record, 48.6% above the previous record set in 2012 (258 deals, US$115.6bn) – largely driven by Takeda Pharmaceutical's US$ 79.7bn acquisition of Shire, the largest acquisition by a Japanese company on record. The US was the most targeted country for Japanese dealmakers with 93 deals totalling US$ 23.7bn, down 41% by value compared to 2017 (113 deals, US$ 40.2bn). Meanwhile, French companies are in line to gain greater access to public tenders in Japan due to the recently announced EU/Japan trade agreement, according to Mergermarket intelligence. Outbound Industrials & Chemicals (US$ 33.2bn) saw its value soar 3.5x compared to 2017, boosted by Taiyo Nippon Sanso's US$5.7bn acquisition of Praxair. Similar deals in the space are expected as digitalisation and mass manufacturing customisation grows, according to Mergermarket intelligence.

- Meanwhile, private equity activity experienced a slowdown in 2018. Buyouts decreased 86.9% by value to US$ 2.1bn (54 deals) compared to 2017 (45 deals, US$ 16.3bn), to its third lowest value on Mergermarket record. Similarly, exits dropped by both value and number of deals to US$1.7bn (24 deals), down 61% by value compared to 2017 (US$4.3bn, 43 deals). Technology was the most active sector in terms of exits with US$1.1bn (four deals), a 4x increase compared to 2017 (US$ 264m, six deals), mainly led by INCJ's sale of Renesas Electronics for US$ 762m, the largest PE deal announced this year. The Consumer sector also recorded four exits worth US$ 84m, up 86.7% compared to 2017 (US$ 45m, six deals), with additional deals in the pipeline as portfolio companies including Kojitusanso, MoonStar and Mark Styler mature for exit, according to Mergermarket intelligence.

Middle East & Africa

• In line with trends seen globally, M&A targeting the Middle East and Africa (MEA) saw a steep decline in the final few months of the year. In 2018, the region recorded US$ 65.3bn worth of activity (391 deals), 4.7% up by value compared to 2017 (US$ 62.4bn, 492 deals). As a result, its share of global M&A has dipped to 1.8%, the region's second lowest figure since the crisis. Despite this, MEA recorded an uptick in blockbuster deals, with 16 transactions worth at least US$ 1bn – up from nine the year prior. On the back of a rise in commodity prices earlier in the year, deals such as Eni's sale of a 10% stake in the Zohr oil field to Mubadala Petroleum and several divestments by ADNOC helped push the Energy, Mining & Utilities sector to its highest value since 2013, at US$ 19.1bn (70 deals). Looking ahead, several privatisation programmes in Oman and Egypt have been introduced, which could result in further big-ticket transactions in the coming year, according to Mergermarket intelligence.

• With 188 deals worth a total US$ 17bn, Africa saw subdued activity in 2018, registering its lowest value since 2009 (US$ 14.5bn, 179 deals). There were five deals worth US$ 1bn announced in 2018, including Africa Oil, Delonex Energy, and Vitol Group's acquisition of a 50% stake in Petrobras Oil & Gas worth US$ 1.4bn. Energy, Mining & Utilities was the most active sector across the continent in 2018, with a total of 41 deals worth US$ 5.5bn announced. Barrick's proposed acquisition of Randgold could fuel further activity in the space in 2019 through potential reinvestments and asset reorganisation in gold-focused African mining company Acacia Mining, in which Barrick owns a 63.9% stake, according to Mergermarket intelligence. There were 19 African Mining deals in 2018, failing to reach the post-crisis high of 37 seen a year prior.

• Middle Eastern M&A (excl. Israel) recorded a sizeable increase in activity, hitting its second highest post-crisis value with US$ 22.6 (103 deals) announced in 2018. This was largely as a result of Energy, Mining & Utilities activity in the region, which reached US$ 9.5bn across 22 deals, its highest value and deal count on Mergermarket record. Investment from outside MEA has been a driving force behind the region's strong activity in 2018, hitting its highest value and volume on record with 50 deals worth US$ 11.6bn registered. Asian investment has been key to this uptick, registering 21 investments into the Middle East worth a total US$ 5.8bn – its highest value and volume on record. Interest from Indian buyers increased significantly, from just one deal in 2017 to seven last year, including the acquisition of a 10% stake in the Lower Zakum Offshore concession from Abu Dhabi National Oil Company (ADNOC) by a consortium led by ONGC Videsh for US$ 600m.

• Highly attractive innovative assets have resulted in foreign investment continuing to propel Israeli M&A, which has reached a century deals for the fourth successive year. In 2018, exactly 100 deals worth a combined US$ 25.6bn were recorded, as the country reached its highest value on Mergermarket record. Inbound M&A from large US corporates dominated 2018 activity, exemplified by IFF's US$ 7bn takeover of Frutarom and the US$ 3.2bn acquisition of SodaStream by PepsiCo. US investment into Israel has reached US$ 16.5bn (27 deals), its second highest value on record following four deals worth over US$ 1bn. Looking forward, values are set to increase with deals involving more mature companies with established technologies, according to Mergermarket intelligence.
